THE BETTER PART.

Over and over it comes to me.
A motto plain and old,
Which ought to be hung in every home,
"Cased in a frame of gold;
Oh, happier far our lives might be,
If we would never forget
That, rich or poor, or well or ill,
"Tis better to give than get!"

Mr. McKenzie, of the Public Works Department of Ontario, visited Minden yesterday and inspected the vault of the registry office which he pronounced unsafe. The arch of the vault is too light and the material and workmanship so poor that it has not the strength to carry any weight that in case of fire might fall up on it or to resist the power of great heat. It has already been bed together to keep it from spreading apart, then the bottom gave way, and a new foundation built to support the old one—now it would seem as if the only thing that can be done under the circumstances is to repair it by building a new one.

FREE CRAYON PORTRAITS & FRAMES

To all our Subscribers for 1892.

We, the publishers of "North American Homes," in order to increase the circulation of our journal throughout the United States and Canada, will spend this year over one hundred thousand dollars among our new subscribers in the form of an artistic Crayon Portrait and a handsome frame (as per cut below), to be made free of charge for every new subscriber to "North American Homes." Our family journal is a monthly publication consisting of 16 pages, filled with the best literature of the day, by some of the best authors, and is worthy of the great expense we are doing for it. Eight years ago the New York World had only about 10,000 daily circulation; to-day it has over 300,000. This was obtained by judicious advertisement and a lavish expenditure of money. What the proprietor of the N. A. World has accomplished we feel confident of doing ourselves. We have a large capital to draw upon, and the handsome premiums we are giving you will certainly give us the largest circulation of any paper in the world. The money we are spending now among our subscribers will soon come back to us in increased circulation and advertisements. The Crayon Portrait we will have made for you will be executed by the largest association of artists in this city. Their work is among the finest made, and we guarantee you an artistic Portrait and a perfect likeness to the original. There is nothing more useful as well as ornamental than a handsome framed Crayon Portrait of yourself or any member of your family; therefore this is a chance in a lifetime to get one already framed and ready to hang in your parlor absolutely free of charge.

READ THE FOLLOWING GRAND 30 DAYS' OFFER:

Send us $1.50, price for one year subscription to "North American Homes," and send us also a photograph, tatype or daguerrotype of yourself or any member of your family, living or dead, and we will make you from same an artistic half life size Crayon Portrait, and put the Portrait in a good substantial gilt or bronze frame of 2 inch moulding, absolutely free of charge; will also furnish you a genuine French glass, box and packing same free of expense. Cut this out and send it with your photograph at once, at your subscription, which you can pay by Draft, P. O. Money Order, Express Money Order, or Postal Note, made payable to

Don't be in Haste

To break off an old and tried friendship. To contract a new and doubtful alliance. To give advice without being asked for it. To spend your salary in advance of earning it.

Deliberation is a great preventive of misery.

To make love to more than one woman at a time.

To give up a reputable business to dabble in politics.

To take part in the differences between your neighbors.

To blame your children for following your bad examples.

To quarrel with your wife because she criticises your faults.

To accept the scandalous stories you hear concerning other people.

To give up a safe but plodding business for a bubble speculation.

To quarrel with your husband because he doesn't tell you everything he knows.

Or with your lover because he mixes common sense with his lovmaking.

Or with your sweetheart because she treats other gentlemen with courtesy.

To go in debt because the shopkeepers have confidence in your honesty.

Sudden Changes.

A cold, or exposure, many cause the poisonous acids in the blood to clog its circulation. This is rheumatism. Clark's Lightning Liniment will stop the pain at once. It should be taken both internally and externally if the attack is severe, and it affords instant relief. If the pain appears again, it should be met with the same treatment, until a cure is effected. This wonderful preparation has worked some remarkable cures among rheumatic sufferers. Where once tried, it is always used after. Sold by all druggists; price 50 cents. Clark Chemical Company. Toronto, New York.

A Forgiving Dog.

When the dog tax was first imposed in France, many of the people set to work to get rid of their useless dogs, so as to avoid paying a tax on them.

A Frenchman had an old Newfoundland dog, which he coaxed to the river side, told him to lie down, tied all his four feet together with a rope, and pushed him into the Seine. The dog in his struggles loosened the rope, and with great difficulty and panting for breath scrambled up the steep bank. There stood his master stick in hand, to drive him back. He struck at the dog, and then, coming to close quarters, gave him a violent push, in doing which he somehow lost his own balance, and himself fell into the water. His hopes of life would have been very few indeed if the dog had not been "the better man of the two." But the dog, forgetting the treatment he had just received, plunged of his own accord into the river, where he had so nearly met his death, and spent his remaining strength in saving his would-be-murderer. It was a hard struggle, but he came off conqueror; and the two walked home together, the one triumphant, the other, let us hope, repentant.

VAST MINERAL RESOURCES.

How Ontario will Advertise her Great Natural Wealth at the World's Fair.

The World's Fair at Chicago will be the first exhibition that has ever done justice to the minerals of Ontario. Canada has been allotted 10,000 feet altogether for minerals, of which Ontario should have at least 4,000 feet, while 5,000 feet will be used if it can be obtained. These minerals come from all sections of the Province. From the immediate country north-east of Toronto comes lead, copper, iron, gold, marble, granite, mica, asbestos, and phosphate of lime. Then from Western Ontario comes gypsum, petroleum, marl, salt, terra cotta clay, and various kinds of building stone. Around Sudbury and on the north shore of Lake Huron are found rich deposits of nickel, copper and iron, while further west again are silver, marble and lead; in fact these are found all over the northern portion of the Province.

A fact not generally known, even in the Province itself, but which this exhibit will fully show the world, is that in various parts of Ontario, such as Kenora, Cornwall, Frontenac and some of the northern districts, the finest marbles and granites, grey, black, white and brown, to be obtained anywhere in the world are found.

Hon. A. S. Hardy, Commissioner of Crown Lands, is determined to have the mineral resources of this Province properly advertised to the world, and looks at the coming fair as Ontario's opportunity. By his direction every effort is being made to assist the Ontario Commissioner for the fair to secure a collection worthy of the Province, and which it is naturally well able to produce. The Echo will gladly receive and forward specimens from this locality.

The Farmer's Fightin'.

The farmer's life is a life of fight. Which he must learn quite handy. But when he fights he must not swear, Sing Yankee Doodle dandy.

The canker worm comes to the front, Will spoil your fruit most surely Unless you fight with spray and ink, And give them fits right truly.

The caterpillar next in line; His march is long and steady; He's bent on ruin every time, To fight you must be ready.

Then comes the bug, a mighty host, All colors, "kit and boodle;" Now give them fight and don't get mad, But whistle Yankee Doodle.

The currant worms come on apace, And now there's mischief brewin', And you must fight them quick and long, Or they'll ruin your currants.

With hellebore give them a shot, While they are upward making; 'Twill give them a tremendous shock, And set their bellies aching.

Then come the muck worm, wire worm, cut worm, And all their wide relations; They'll eat what's good and leave the bad, And march through all creation.

The beetle follows in the train; They're death to your potatoes, But Paris green will give them fits, And calm their carnal "naters."

Then come the crows—a motley crew, Bring out your gun and powder; They'll pull your corn, true as you're born, Shoot—blow them to a chowder.

And when we've fought all day long (It beats the very dickens), The foxes come at dead of night And carry off the chickens.

But let them come with all their force, "Rag tag, kit and boodle," We'll fight, but not get mad or swear, But whistle Yankee Doodle.

For Over Fifty Years.

Trick

It is an unusual anecdote involving theft and deception which rouses not only amusement but admiration of the culprit's cleverness. Yet such a story is told by a recent writer who was himself a witness of the incident.

At Khartoum I saw a man who was exhibiting three large apes who performed several tricks at his command. I entered into conversation with him, and he told me that the male ape was the most dexterous thief imaginable, and stole every day a sufficient amount of food for his subsistence.

In proof of this he begged me to watch the animal for a few minutes. I did so, and presently the keeper led him to a spot where a date-seller was sitting on the ground with his basket beside him. Here his master put him through his evolutions, and although I could perceive that the monkey had an eye to the fruit, yet so completely did he disguise his intentions that no careless observer would have noticed it.

He did not at first care about approaching the basket, but gradually brought himself nearer and nearer, until he got close to the owner.

In the midst of one of his feats, he suddenly started up from the ground on which he was stretched, and uttering a cry, as if in pain or rage, fixed his eyes full on the face of the date-seller; then, without moving the rest of his body, he stole as many dates as he could hold in one of his "hind hands." The date-seller thus started out of countenance, and having his attention diverted by his extraordinary movement knew nothing about the theft until a bystander told him of it. Then he joined heartily in the laugh raised, against him.

Many Ladies

have written that Clark's Catarrh Cure has relieved them, restoring perfectly in every sense. Through gratitude they have consented that their names be published. Yet the Clark Chemical Company will not use this means to advertise their remedy. They will not parade the sufferings of any one, or invade the sacred privacy of any home. Any sufferer from catarrh will recommend Clark's Catarrh Cure, and that good word is worth more than the published certificate. Clark Chemical Company, Toronto, New York.

WELCOME

MILK FEVER.

The symptoms in milk fever are dullness, languor, uneasy movements of hind limbs, a full bounding pulse, red eyes, hot head and horns. As the cow gets weaker she loses sensation. In one form of the disease, the heat of the head and delirium may be wanting, the prominent symptoms being fever, quick pulse and breathing and loss of use of limbs. Few that are attacked the first two days after calving survive. Prevention in this case is best. Feed on spare diet for a week before and two weeks after calving. Milk before calving if necessary and udder seems distended. The fever may be naturally reduced by enveloping the whole body of the cow in a sheet wrung out of cold water and covering this with a dry rug or blanket. Give purgatives. When hind limbs get affected, place a blanket over the loins and keep a hot iron moving briskly over the end of the backbone.

A lady was engaged in domestic affairs when some one rang the street door bell and the Roman Catholic servant was bidden to say that her mistress was not at home. She answered, "Yes ma'am, and when I confess to the priest shall I confess it as your sin or mine?"

An Aimless Life.

I committed one fatal error in my youth, and dearly have I labored it. I started in life without an object, even an ambition. My temperament disposed me to ease, and to the full I indulged the disposition. I said to myself: "I have all I see others contending for; why should I struggle?" I knew not the curse that lights on those who have never to struggle for anything. Had I created for myself a definite pursuit—literary, scientific, artistic, social, political, no matter what, so there was something to labour for and to overcome—I might have been happy. I know this now—too late. The power is gone. Habits have become chains. Through all the profitless years gone by, I seek vainly for something to remember with pride, or even to dwell on with satisfaction. I have thrown away a life. I feel sometimes as if there were nothing remaining to me worth living for. I am an unhappy man.

This is the title of a 32 page pamphlet of information, containing answers to all the questions an inquirer would be likely to ask about books, instruction, salaries of stenographers, how to secure positions, etc., etc. It will show what young men have done at home on farms and in workshops; how from the humblest beginnings the highest success has been reached by learning this art at piece-meal study, and while pursuing other occupations. The success of stenographers as compared with the success of young men in any other vocation in life, will be seen to be marvelous and encouraging. The author of this system was himself a farmer's boy and learned the art while following the plow. The information he gives in this pamphlet will be of interest and value to every young man (or young woman either) who must earn their own living. The pamphlet is mailed for 5 one cent postage stamps to anyone writing for it and mentioning the paper in which this article appears.

MINDEN, FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1892

BRITISH ELECTIONS.

THE elections to the British House of Commons just closed have been unusually interesting, not only to the entire British Empire, but it may be said to the world. This interest is of a two fold nature, as a change in the British government upon the lines laid down by the aspirants to power would not only involve the serious liability of a civil war, but also a complete reversal of the present foreign policy, with all the complications necessarily attending such an event, the result tending largely towards producing irritation with foreign nations and an increased liability to hasten a general European turmoil. On the one hand Mr. Gladstone's friends claim that he will have a majority in the whole house when Parliament assembles of about forty, but this includes such a variety of component parts that it cannot by any means be looked upon as solid; it includes Liberals, Radicals, Parnellites, Anti-Parnellites and Labor representatives that are liable to differ on many points that would more than annihilate the supposed majority. On the other hand the Conservative and Liberal Unionists are a united phalanx on almost every point in the policy of the Salisbury administration, it includes some of the ablest and most capable statesmen of the present age; men who are bound together by the strongest ties of loyalty to the Crown and Empire, the integrity of which constitutes the intensity of their bond of union. Already talk of coalition fills the air, and it has been decided that the Salisbury government will meet the new house with a bold front and test the strength and cohesion of their opponents. The Salisbury government have a majority of the representatives of Great Britain, while the party led by Mr. Gladstone are dependent entirely upon the factionists of Ireland for their support and it is already admitted that this majority can only be kept present in the house by donations from "the generous Irish in America." What a humiliating admission this is!! that Mr. Gladstone has brought his party and his country to the position that it is to be ruled by representatives kept in place by the donations of Irish servant girls and citizens of a foreign country.

He (preparing to leave): I assure you Miss Smarte, the time has passed very pleasantly this evening. She (abstractedly): Yes, it is pleasant to know that it is passed.

DIVISION COURT.

A sitting of the First Division Court of the Prov. Co. of Haliburton was held in the Court House, Minden, yesterday. His Honor J. McSweeney Esq., Deputy Judge presiding. The docket comprised some half dozen cases, none of which were of any very special importance. The first on the list was—Gainer v. Terry.—This was a disputed account on both sides; Mr. Gainer claiming a balance in his favor. The judge struck out part of Mr. Terry's contra account, amounting to $10.45, which he said the statute compelled him to do, judgment for Plt. for $14.47 1/2. Mr. Delamere appearing for Defendant.

Stinson v. W. & D. Nesbitt.—Two cases, involving between $80 and $40, was settled out of court, judgment by consent as per settlement, Mr. Delamere for Plt.

McPherson v. Ferguson. This was a case tried at the previous sitting of the court and judgment given for Plt. in default of appearance of defendant. A new trial having been granted, the defence was gone into resulting in a verdict for defendant unless the plaintiff produce his son Wm. McPherson at next court to disprove statement of bargain claimed by defendant, Mr. Delamere for the defence.

Gainer v. Pogue.—A claim under a mortgage was reserved.

Gainer v. Dancey.—Settled out of court.

Campbell v. Boyd.—Judgment for Plt. for one dollar, the balance claimed having been paid into court, Mr. Delamere for the defence.

ment Appeal
al made from any Court of Revision in this section of the country for a long time, came before His Honor for adjudication to-day after the close of the Div. Court business.

Mr. David Galloway, of the Township of Lutterworth had appealed against his assessment on two grounds, viz.:—assessed for more acres than his deed gave him, and being too high, six witnesses on behalf of the Municipality were present, Mr. Galloway had with drawn his appeal, the notice coming to the Minden Post Office on the evening of the 19th inst., and the trial had been set down for the 21st, so that there was not sufficient time given to notify the witnesses who live many miles apart to prevent their attendance. The Judge took the whole matter into consideration, the reeve, W. Hurdle, sq. showed that the appeal had caused much unnecessary expense and trouble to the Municipality, that he had surveyed Mr. Galloway's land, the measurement of which he disputed, and found the lot Mr. Galloway claimed only contained 60 acres had about 11 acres in it, and where he claimed a over charge the owner of the adjoining lot was there to prove that Mr. Galloway's lot was better than his, and he was assessed much higher than Mr. Galloway. A big surprise was in store for Mr. Galloway had he made his appearance in Court. The Judge deprecated the course of procedure adopted by the appellant, dismissed the appeal with costs for all the witnesses present against Mr. Galloway. This will perhaps be a useful lesson to others.

THE FLIRT

FLIRTS are born, not made. The baby with flirty instincts in all probability makes eyes at her father before she realizes their relationship, and from the time she is old enough to talk and toddle has admirers by the score, whom she takes, as a matter of course, while her actions to the demure little body with perhaps one shy adorer seems most reprehensible. She need not be in the least heartless in order to gain the reputation of being an arrant coquette who enjoys leading men on by the sweetness of her smiles, only to cast them off for a newer and fresher conquest. The manufactured article is the one to be avoided. The counterfeiter, who wilfully plays one man against another to further her own ends, is as base as base can be, and "flirt" is entirely too mild a name for a woman who so far forgets herself and another's feeling as to stoop to such a course of action. But the bright, winsome little creature who receives all homage as her due, walks in the morning with one man, rides in the afternoon with another, and dances in the evening with a third, is only a popular girl who cannot, to save her soul, prevent her eyes looking unutterable things and her voice taking on the enticing, bewitching accents men find so irresistible. She will probably do the same thing after she is married as well as before, because it is born in her, yet she need not be the least bit heartless or frivolous. She simply cannot help her nature, and is bound to be charming to the opposite sex whether she wills it or not. Very dangerous are these natural flirts, and very winsome. Man contends yet cannot resist. He knows she does not care the snap of her finger for him; it is only her way, yet that way is more altogether desirable than the unwavering pronounced affection of any other woman. Such a girl never loves deeply; she is too much for the multitude to center her attention for any great length of time on any one object. Yet she is the one to make the best match, to gain the regard of the noblest man and to keep it too, notwithstanding he knows he is married to a genuine out-and-out flirt, who looks at others in exactly the same adorable manner that makes him her most humble slave. The flirt of this type rarely compromises herself by any action not absolutely straightforward and for the world to see, therefore her husband can trust her, though he notes the attention she receives, for he knows it is not the tete-a-tete style of coquetry, but that of the throng that gives her pleasure. One man would bore where many delight, therefore he can smile and be certain that if there had not been something about him superior to the others she would not have consented to marry him. Let him not question what it is, but be content that the woman accustomed to admiration from her cradle has consented to bear his name, preside over his home with her own sweet grace and go on receiving adoration until death puts an end to the game.
